

LONE AVIATOR TAKES OFF ON 4500-MI. JUMP

Wisconsin Youth Will Try to Reach Lithuanian Capital

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Bound on a nonstop flight to Lithuania, Lieut. Felix Waitkus was faced today with bad weather conditions over the North Atlantic.

Six hours after the 28-year-old Wisconsin flier lifted his plane—the Lituanica II—from Floyd Bennett field at 4:45 A. M. (CST), weather reports from Newfoundland said flying conditions "could only be worse."

Waitkus was unsighted along the North Atlantic coast. No concern was felt for his safety, however.

The plane is not equipped with radio sending equipment and, in addition, Waitkus planned to fly as much as possible in the sub-tropical zone. Officials at Floyd Bennett field said if Waitkus did this, he would miss the bad weather lying ahead of him. He was due over Newfoundland late today.

Goal 4500 Miles Away
Waitkus' goal is Kaunas, the Lithuanian capital, 4500 miles from New York.

Heavily-loaded, the airplane left Floyd Bennett in a dead calm, with fair skies overhead.

A "dolly," a small four-wheel truck, supported the plane's tail as the run was made. Waitkus kissed his wife, Martha, goodbye shortly after 4 A. M. and climbed into the cockpit. He posed briefly for cameramen before warming his motor.

The plane left the ground and went some distance not more than 50 feet in the air. Slowly it gained altitude. Little more than a hundred feet up it became a speck in the distance, and was gone.

Load of 8000 Pounds
The route planned by Waitkus would take him over Newfoundland, Ireland, England, Denmark and the Baltic Sea, entering Lithuania by way of Memel.

The total load with which he took off at 8000 pounds.
Kasimir Dabuzvaidis, Lithuanian consul in New York, bade Waitkus goodbye and Godspeed. Paul Zadek, Lithuanian minister to the United States, conveyed similar sentiments from Washington by telephone earlier.

Waitkus, wife, to whom he was married a year and a half ago, planned to remain in New York until Wednesday. She will sail then on the Normandie to join him in Kaunas.

The flier carried a thousand letters for delivery in Lithuania.
He also carried ribbons, contributed by Chicago Lithuanian-Americans, to drop on the graves of Stephen Darius and Stanley Grenas, who, attempting a similar flight, crashed just over the Polish border on July 17, 1933, with their goal only 375 miles away. Both were killed.

Follows Great Circle
Waitkus planned to fly the Great Circle route, going by way of Newfoundland. For food he took five ham and egg sandwiches, a quart of coffee, a quart of lemonade, two gallons of water, and fruit.

The plane is a Lockheed Vega biplane, painted white with orange trim. The American and Lithuanian flags are painted on the rudder and side door. It has a Wasp motor of 550 horsepower supercharged.

The flight is a cooperative venture sponsored by the Chicago Lithuanian newspaper Najienos and the American Lithuanian trans-Atlantic Flight Association. Waitkus regards it sentimentally as an attempt to complete the flight started by Darius and Grenas.

Waitkus' equipment included a radio compass with outside loop loop aerial. He planned to tune in on an English or French station for his direction. He also took with him a collapsible boat, kites, a very pistol and flares.

The plane, capable of 200 miles per hour top speed and cruising speed of 160 miles per hour, was loaded with 700 gallons of gasoline and 36 gallons of oil.

The clergyman was instantly killed when his automobile was struck by a C. B. & Q. motor train at a crossing near Silvis.

Funeral services will be held in Geneseo, Monday morning.

WORK RELIEF IN ILLINOIS ENDED BY LATE ORDERS

BULLETIN
Chicago, Sept. 21.—(AP)—City officials today announced 2,500 persons employed by the city and paid by the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission would be laid off Monday because IERC funds are exhausted.

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Orders halting work relief and sharply reducing activities of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission were in effect today after IERC officials announced its funds were $1,000,000 short or require-ments for the remainder of the month despite $500,000 granted by federal authorities after an emergency plea.

Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary, issued the curtailment order, with approval of the commission, and announced the federal government would not allocate more September funds for the state. He said the $500,000 additional had been granted after a telephone call to federal administrator Harry Hopkins.

Work relief was stopped summarily in Cook county by order of county administrator Leo Lyons, and arrangements were made to disburse relief orders on a semi-monthly instead of monthly basis, staggering the relief load.

All downstate counties were advised their funds were being reduced proportionately and no commitments would be incurred in excess of available funds.

ACTRESS TRIED TO KILL SELF IN HOTEL LEAP

West Chester, Pa., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Henry Huddleston Rogers, Jr., Standard Oil fortune heir, put behind him today the ordeal of more than two hours questioning and a record of his firm denial that he had any part in the killing of Evelyn Hoey, "torch" singer of Broadway musicals.

Miss Hoey, he told a jury of six men and a packed courtroom last night, shot herself to death in his secluded Chester county farmhouse on the night of September 11 because "she was unhappy and depressed."

"She didn't sing, and thought she lost her voice. I think she felt she couldn't go back to that part of the theater," he said reflectively.

Rogers' testimony ended the second day of the inquest, and Deputy Coroner Harvey Cox recessed the proceedings until Monday night. At that time he said he would call a fingerprint expert, a doctor who conducted an autopsy, and Downington police.

Rogers testified Miss Hoey attempted to leap from the window of a New York hotel a few weeks ago while they were conversing. He pulled her back, he said, when all but an arm and a leg were out of the window and she hurt her nose in the struggle.

"She was always moody when she was drinking," he said.
Rogers acknowledged his relationship with the musical actress were intimate. He denied he wanted to "break off."

California Home of Rich Packer Robbed

Austin, Minn., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Burglars looted the Beverly Hills, Calif., home of George A. Hornel, head of the local packing firm bearing his name, but got nothing of great value, he said today, adding, however, "they might have taken some securities."

"I doubt that more than a small amount of valuable paper was taken in the robbery," said Hornel as he professed amusement at the report $500,000 worth of securities had been stolen.

"I was not sure just what had been left in the house," Hornel said. "At any rate Wednesday morning I ordered transfer of any securities that might have been left there stopped and the order was pushed through before anyone could possibly have exchanged them."

Joe Louis, Sensational "Brown Bomber" of Prize Ring, Expected to Visit Dixon on Honeymoon

Immediately after the fight Tuesday night, Louis will be wedded to Miss Marba Trotter of Chicago and they will leave New York on a wedding trip.

His bride is the sister of Rev. W. C. Trotter, who is pastor of the Second Baptist church of this city, a resident of Chicago. Rev. Trotter is absent from his local

HELD FOR DEATH OF CELLMATE IN STERLING'S JAIL

Wm. Gross is Alleged to Have Kicked Transient to Death

BULLETIN
Local police records show that Pat Reardon, allegedly beaten to death in the Sterling city jail by a fellow convict Thursday night, was arrested by Officer Harry Jones of this city on May 21 on a drunkenness charge; that he was fined $50 and costs and that on his promise to leave the city the fine was suspended.

William Gross, 26, of Sterling was this morning held to the grand jury under murder charges as the result of the death of a transient believed to have been Pat Reardon, 55, of Philadelphia, Pa., from injuries alleged to have been inflicted by Gross Thursday night in a cell of the Sterling city jail, where both had been locked up for drunkenness.

It is believed that Gross kicked and stomped Reardon about the head inflicting the fatal injuries a short time after the men were placed in the cell between 8 and 9 o'clock Thursday night. Reardon was removed to the Sterling public hospital in the Woods ambulance where he passed away at 2:40 o'clock Friday morning without regaining consciousness.

Ordered Out Of Town
Reardon had been visiting Sterling off and on for 10 years or more and had been here for the past several days. Wednesday night Chief Curtis Bucher received a call from a resident on First avenue asking that he be removed from that neighborhood. Chief Bucher located the man and told him to get out of the city. He promised to spend the night in the railroad yards and said he would leave early Thursday morning.

However, Thursday afternoon the man was found trying to mooch a drink in a local place of business. He was again told to leave the city and is said to have gone to Rock Falls. About 6:30 o'clock the police received a call that a man in an intoxicated condition was crossing the First avenue bridge. The police took him in tow and placed him in what is called a cage, which is a small steel barred cell within the larger cell.

A padlock was placed in the hasp but it was not locked as the padlock was out of order. However, no one from within the cage could reach the padlock to remove it and get out. The man believed to have been between 55 and 60 years of age lay down on the cot and immediately fell asleep.
Reardon had no papers of identification. However, on the muscle of his left arm was tattooed the name Pat Reardon, 68 Woodland, Philadelphia, Pa., and on his forearm were the initials I. H. S. On his right arm is an Odd Fellows emblem and the initials P. R.

Arrested On Girl's Complaint
About 8 o'clock Thursday evening, Miss Maxine Reinhardt of Garden City appeared at the police office and complained that a man had slapped her while she and two girl companions were walking along West Third street. She said the man had made some wise crack at her which she resented and he struck her. She did not know his name but within a few minutes she returned to the police station and said the man was sitting in a doorway on East Third street. The police found the man and took him to the city jail.

He was placed in the outer part of the cell in which Reardon had been placed. This is a customary thing to do as it separates the drunks from the other transients who visit the jail for a night's lodging, they being placed in the other cell.

Face Badly Mutilated
These drunks usually make considerable disturbance and many times it is necessary for the firemen or police to go into the corridor in front of the cells and make the drunks quiet down. Gross

DAMAGE SUITS FILED 2 YEARS AFTER ACCIDENT

Three suits to collect damages totalling $16,000 were filed with Circuit Clerk E. S. Rosecrans late yesterday afternoon by the firm of Dixon, Devine, Bracken & Dixon, representing Mrs. Emma Kretzschmar, her husband, Richard Kretzschmar and their son Carl, all residents of St. Louis, Mo. The action is brought against Clara Mammen and Everett Mullens, the latter being a resident of Brooklyn township in Lee county.

The suits are the result of an automobile accident which occurred Sept. 21, 1933 about two miles south of Rochelle on state route 70, U. S. route 51, the plaintiffs alleging that a car owned by Clara Mammen and operated by Everett Mullens, turned suddenly to the left, while being driven in a reckless manner, causing the Kretzschmar car to overturn in a ditch.

In one action, Mrs. Kretzschmar seeks damages in the amount of $10,000 for permanent injuries sustained in the accident, claiming that she has expended a considerable sum in an effort to regain her health. A second suit brought by Richard Kretzschmar, asks for $5,000 damages, alleging that he has paid out sums totalling about $2,000 for housekeepers and other help in his home, because of his wife's condition, resulting from injuries incurred in the accident. The son Carl seeks to collect $1,000 damages, claiming that the car was damaged to the extent of $500 in the collision and that he expended approximately the same amount while the car was being repaired. Jury trials are asked in all three of the damage suits.

Demands Information on What Changes of Basic Law Desired

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Edward A. Hayes of Decatur, Ill., past national American Legion commander, today was recorded as demanding an "easily understood statement" from administration officials of changes they desired in the Constitution.

Addressing a meeting of patriotic organizations sponsored by the Paul Revere last night in observance of Constitution week, Hayes declared: "Anyone can understand why many high officials in power today insist that we should forget the past. For them it is politically expedient."

"Without eternal vigilance the patriotism which produced our constitutional democracy will have been destroyed."

"It is our duty again and again to inform our people of the truth that most of the evils from which we suffer governmentally are rooted in departure, whether intended or not, from either the letter or the spirit of the constitution."

Charge is Denied

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Harold Beacom, member of the executive committee of the Illinois Republican Citizens Organization, said today that body had made no contributions to the Republican national committee.

"If we do make such contributions in the future, we will list every individual donor," he declared.

Beacom's statement came after Postmaster General James A. Farley declared in an address at Endicott, N. Y., that Republicans were organizing a "private corporation" to collect a campaign fund without listing the donors.

"Our organization was formed in June to promote the 1936 Republican campaign in Illinois," Beacom said. "We have accepted no contributions from outside the state and consequently are not susceptible to the Federal corrupt practices act."

FIVE PEOPLE, 14 HORSES, DIED IN CROSSING CRASH

C. & E. I. Train Struck Auto Driven by Woman Late Friday

Hillsboro, Ill., Sept. 21.—(AP)—Five persons and 14 race horses died near here in the collision of the Century of Progress, speedy Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railway train, and an automobile driven by a farm woman.

Wrecking crews worked through the night clearing the overturned locomotive, baggage car and a car which carried the horses, from a tangled mass of track where the west bound train and the car crashed late yesterday.

Six men riding in the car with the horses were seriously injured but not a passenger was hurt. Two waiters in the dining car were slightly injured. The passenger cars left the rails but did not overturn.

One Unidentified
One of the dead was a man extricated after many hours from beneath the car in which the horses rode, headed from Detroit to Texas. He was not identified and apparently was riding the rods. The other dead:

Edward Edmester, engineer, about 55; Dan McDouglas, fireman, about 55; Henry Smith, 45, road foreman of engines for the railway, all of Villa Grove, Ill., and Mrs. Edward Damman, driver of the motorcar. She lived near Hillsboro.

The seriously injured were jockeys or attendants.
Thirteen of the horses were the property of the Motor City Stables owned by Lu Lepper, Detroit. A pony in the car with the racing stock also was killed. Horses not killed outright were maimed so badly they were destroyed.

Regulations for CCC Camp Enlistments to be Made Less Severe

According to telegram received in Lee County Emergency Relief Committee office, the regulations under which males may be selected for CCC will in all probability be changed for October 1st enrollment.

Boys 17 years of age or more will be admitted. Those boys who have already been in the camp for a minimum of four months will be re-enrolled regardless of the length of their previous enrollment. It is still necessary, however, to restrict enrollments to relief families and all relief boys are urged to go to CCC as under the new work program the families will be removed from relief rolls and this CCC income gives the family an excellent opportunity to better its condition.

Applications for new or re-enrollment are being taken at the relief offices.

BRUTAL ATTACK IN W. BROOKLYN REPORTED TODAY

Sheriff and Prosecutor Investigating Affair of Tuesday Night

Merritt Rice, aged 28, of Bradford township is in a critical condition at the home of Joseph Lovett, who resides east of Lee Center, the result of an altercation which took place in West Brooklyn Tuesday night about 11 o'clock. It was reported today and Sheriff Ward Miller and State's Attorney Edward Jones were conducting an investigation. Rice is reported to be suffering from a skull fracture and internal injuries and to have been unconscious since Tuesday night. Late yesterday afternoon, he was said to have regained consciousness for short intervals, during which he had named his assailant.

Only limited information had been secured today, it was said, but this was sufficient grounds for the issuance of a warrant at noon for an unnamed suspect, said to be a former resident of Lee county, who according to information, left for parts unknown late Thursday night.

Followed Celebration

The altercation, according to rumors, was the culmination of a celebration Tuesday night marking the completion of the West Brooklyn spur highway. Rice in company with Chester Case, John Thompson and Joseph Lovett drove into West Brooklyn about 10 o'clock, all riding in the Case car. The car was parked, the driver leaving the keys in the switch, while the four men transacted business in the village, and returning, discovered that the keys had been taken. They immediately suspected that some one had stolen the keys and started looking for the suspect. The four men are said to have started in different directions and about 11 o'clock discovered Rice's body lying in a pool of blood along a side street, apparently dead. The young man was rushed to the office of a physician, where it was found that he was suffering from a skull fracture and internal injuries. It was first thought that he had been struck by an automobile, but the examination was reported to have disclosed evidence of an attack. The assailant was believed to have used an iron bar in striking Rice down, and then to have kicked him in the chest.

Was Not Reported.
After his injuries had been dressed he was removed to the Lovett home east of Lee Center. No word of the brutal assault reached the offices of the state's attorney or sheriff until late Thursday night when Deputy Sheriff Gilbert Finch heard rumors of the attack and informed Sheriff Miller. Late yesterday afternoon, a report reached the office of State's Attorney Jones who immediately ordered the arrest of the alleged assailant. The investigation conducted by the sheriff's office last evening disclosed the fact that the suspect was in Lee Center late Thursday night and informed close friends of his intention of leaving the locality at once. Rumors today indicated that the

Kendall Co. Farmers Formed Vigilantes

Chicago, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Organization of a vigilante group in Kendall county, similar to that formed earlier in Will county, and a $1,000 fund today were added to the forces being built up for the extermination of farm thieves.
Sheriff William Maier swore in 16 farmers from each Kendall county township as special deputies yesterday, and arrangements were made for a four man patrol each night in every township. The vigilantes were armed and told to "take on chances."

The $1,000 was appropriated for arming vigilantes by the Pure Milk Association, with a membership of 18,000 dairy farmers, Harvey Wood, association counsel, announced.

Applications for new or re-enrollment are being taken at the relief offices.

Boys 17 years of age or more will be admitted. Those boys who have already been in the camp for a minimum of four months will be re-enrolled regardless of the length of their previous enrollment. DR. WILDMAN OF STERLING BADLY HURT IN CRASH

Doctors H. A. Wildman, W. H. Perry and F. W. Broderick, all of Sterling, were victims of an automobile accident last night in which the former was possibly fatally injured, while returning to Sterling from a clinic at Davenport, Ia. The former suffered a fractured skull and chest injuries when their car skidded on wet pavement near Joslin, and went into the ditch, turning over and pinning its three occupants underneath it, and at noon today he had not regained consciousness.

Dr. Broderick suffered fractures of a collar bone and a wrist, while Dr. Perry escaped with a severe shaking up and a severe gash on the arm.

The doctors were members of a party of Sterling professional men who had made the trip to Davenport and were extricated from the ruins of their automobile by Drs. C. G. Beard and R. Vandemeyde, who were following them home through the severe rain storm.

Council Heard of Proceedings State Municipal League

Members of the city council were impressed with the fine program given at the annual meeting of the Illinois Municipal League at Quincy, when at the regular meeting last evening Mayor William J. Slothower and Commissioner Cal G. Tyler gave brief reports of the gathering. Both officials attended the different branch meetings of the League on Thursday and Friday and were inspired by the fine addresses delivered by outstanding speakers. A detailed report of the convention will be given at the meeting of the council next week. Commissioner Tyler particularly speaking on the subject of crime prevention and safety.

Commissioner Tyler told the council last evening that repeated complaints relating to an outbuilding on the south side of the river had been investigated by the city health officer who had submitted a report which declared it to be a nuisance and offensive. The city attorney had taken steps to bring legal action against the owner of the property, he added.

Dr. J. B. Werren, city health officer, informed the council that he had conducted an inspection of a sewer on First street and Madison avenue which had been the source of considerable complaint, due to a highly offensive odor coming from the manhole, and suggested a more thorough investigation by the street department.

The application of Charles J. Howe to erect an electric sign at 924 First street was granted by the council.

BARRYMORE IS ALSO GOOD AT RUN, SHEEP, RUN

Kansas City, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The transcontinental run-sheep game of John Barrymore and his former protegee, Elaine Barrie, 20, reached Kansas City today with the film star again apparently eluding the girl.

When the train on which Barrymore was supposed to be riding to Hollywood arrived here he was not aboard, but Miss Barrie, who had speeded through here last night, was at the Union station, having doubled back during the night.

Miss Barrie, accompanied by several companions, was wearing smoked glasses. Her party went into conference for a few minutes and then left in a taxi-cab.

What became of Barrymore was not immediately determined. The game started in New York. He left by train, but Miss Barrie, determined to head him off, chartered a plane and reaching Chicago several hours ahead of his train.

He was successful in eluding her there, and last night caught the westbound Burlington American Royal at Mendota, Ill. Miss Barrie took the Santa Fe Chief. She was aboard the train when it left here for the west last night.

IS IL DUCE BLUFFING?

Geneva, Sept. 21.—(AP)—League delegates today questioned whether Mussolini is bluffing or is he really staking all on the Ethiopian venture?

They saw the peace of the world at stake as Britain and Italy began to lay their cards on the table.

The Italian suggestion that Britain and Italy get together and agree to trade withdrawal of Mussolini's legions from the Libyan-Egyptian frontier in return for the withdrawal of the British warships from the Mediterranean, drew swift and emphatic refusal from the British spokesman at Geneva.

Ships Will Remain
"Not one British warship will be withdrawn from the Mediterranean until the Italo-Ethiopian dispute is on its way to a settlement," was the answer to Rome.

Premier Laval of France was understood to have made a last desperate appeal to Mussolini to accept the league's peace offer, at least as a basis for discussion. According to one report, Laval telegraphed Il Duce the terms for

ITALY TURNS DOWN OFFERS TO AVERT WAR

While European Capitals Wonder if Mussolini is Bluffer

BULLETIN
Rome, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Italy's Duce-dominated cabinet today turned down the League of Nations' peace plan—but its rejection was couched in language so friendly that many believed the door was open for further negotiations.

The rejection was made on the ground that the Geneva proposals "do not offer a minimum basis sufficient for a conclusive realization which finally and efficiently would take into account Italy's vital rights and interests."

London, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The consensus of Europe's diplomats is that, barring the surrender of Mussolini to League of Nations pressure, the Italo-Ethiopian war will break out between Sept. 29 and October 15.

The gravest of the ensuing questions, these troubled diplomats in Rome, Paris, Geneva and London said today, was whether hostilities could be localized or whether the African spark would ignite another world conflagration.

Mussolini's refusal to compromise, combined with the approaching end of the rainy season in Ethiopia, has converted Europe almost overnight from speculation on the likelihood of a colonial war to discussion of what nations may be involved.

Depends On Il Duce.
The survival or collapse of the cumbersome post-war machinery of peace depends, in the view of British circles, on what Mussolini does in the next few critical weeks—or even hours.

Most official and diplomatic spokesmen in Europe's capitals agree that there is only the slenderest chance that Il Duce will back down his blackshirts have crossed the Ethiopian frontier—even if they penetrate only far enough to capture Addis, 25 miles inland.

Such an act of aggression, it is generally believed, would compel the league to swing into action with the whole creaky and untested machinery of sanctions to punish the unprovoked aggression against one of its members.

Immediate Questions.
Immediately these questions would arise:

1. Would the league fail in its attempt to bring the hostilities to a swift end?
2. Would Italy withdraw from the league?
3. If Italy did withdraw would the league's prestige survive such a blow?
4. How far would Great Britain go in advocating sanctions to restrain Italy?
5. How far would France and other nations follow the British lead?
6. What would Britain do if France failed to fall in step for action to punish Italy?
7. Would Italy threaten British interests in the Mediterranean and Africa in reply to sanctions and what is Britain prepared to do acting alone to protect those interests?
8. Would the Italian and the British armadas, drawn up in dangerous proximity in the Mediterranean, be launched at each other's throats by an incident such as the sinking of the Maine?
9. What effect would the sanctions have on Italy?
10. What would Germany do in the event of an Italo-British war?

THEN WHAT?

By Dr. Joseph Fort Newton

G. Wells went to Washington, a reader writes, and talked with the leaders of the New Deal, in order to find out what kind of philosophy, if any, underlies their experiments and efforts.

"They talked freely of plans, projects, and the like, but he was unable to discover their basic idea. They seemed to be just feeling their way along, trying to stimulate a return to prosperity."

"Maybe he was asking too much, but it makes me wonder if any of us have any clear ideas of what kind of a society we want to make. What does the world want? What is it trying to get? Does anybody know?"

"By all means let us better the economic condition of man—good! Let us put an end to the ghastly inequality between rich and poor—exactly! Let us give everybody a chance to live and let live."

"Then what? What is to happen to each one of us in such a society? What is to be the aim of it beyond that point? What shall we live for? To get rich? But when we have all gotten rich—then what?"

"To have a good time? A country in which everybody thought only of getting rich would be bad enough—some of us at any rate would die of disgust. But a country seeking enjoyment—heaven forbid!"

"Such a society would be abhorrent, if not stupefying. But suppose we contrived a social order in which everyone could have as much fun as he liked, and diversions were the chief occupation. Then what?"

"Or maybe I am off the track entirely in asking such questions. But we ought to have some idea, at least, however vague, of where we are going and what we want to do in this endless struggle of man."

"My reader is far ahead of us, thinking out loud—but who will deny that he is asking pertinent questions? If we do not know where we are going how can we get there, if we ever do?"

"It may be unwise to work out in detail what we want the future to be like, but, as with the individual, so with society, we must have some ideal, some purpose, some tentative goal, or we do not get anywhere."

Chapman-James Vows Plighted in Beautiful Ceremony

Paw Paw—Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Chapman, who live south of Paw Paw, a beautiful wedding was solemnized when their only daughter Geraldine and Beauford James of Chicago plighted their vows. The day was ideal and the house was tastefully decorated with many baskets and bouquets of flowers. Mrs. Robert Hampton sang in a lovely manner, "I Love You Truly," and "Oh Promise Me" with Mrs. Arnold Iverson accompanying her on the piano. Mrs. Iverson also played the wedding march as the bridal party took their place before the attending minister, Rev. L. R. Mam of Rollo.

The impressive ring ceremony was used and the bride was given away by her father. She was gown in her mother's wedding dress with a long veil. A lovely luncheon was served to the company which numbered about 35 immediate members of the family and intimate friends.

Many beautiful and useful presents were left with the newlyweds. The family were former residents of the Rollo community and her many friends in this locality extended congratulations. Mrs. James has just completed a nurses course in the Presbyterian hospital in Chicago and will be employed there for the present. The groom is known to all as a splendid type of young man and has a very lucrative position with Armour & Co., in Chicago. In the late afternoon many pictures were taken of the wedding party and other groups. After a short honeymoon the happy couple will take up housekeeping in Chicago.

Story of Bequest of $170,000 Like Old Fashioned Fairy Tale

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Because as a child, she "had had a sweet smile," Mrs. Hannah Gruber Medoff unexpectedly received a $50,000 bequest seven years ago, to be paid in 1935.

Friday, in the office of her attorney, she was told that on Dec. 25, her 31st birthday, she would receive — not $50,000, but nearly $170,000—"as a result of changes in the status of her legacy."

The legacy is from the $2,000,000 estate of the late Dr. Howard Lorraine. He saw Mrs. Medoff, then a blonde grade school girl, dance in a lower east side settlement.

He kept a photograph of the performance, and remembered the child in his will. Years later, she was identified from the picture.

Mrs. Medoff lives in Brooklyn, and has an 8-year-old daughter. Her husband, Charles, is a shoe salesman.

When she comes into her fortune, Mrs. Medoff said, "We are planning to open a chain of shoe stores, and we'll live on Park Avenue."

SIMPLE FRILLS CONVERT ORDINARY FARE INTO COMPANY DINNER

Cookies and fruit make this attractive peach sunburst ice-box cake (From Loose-Wiles Biscuit Co.)

By MARY E. DAGUE

NEA Service Staff Writer

With emergency shelves and delicatessen stores handy, there is no reason on earth why a simple home meal planned with the children in mind shouldn't easily be converted into a company one with frills at need—and no fuss about it, either.

A soup—canned or home-made—a salad of fresh fruits or vegetables or a dressy looking dessert will do wonders to the plainest meal. Or home-made relishes or preserves or hot baking powder biscuits will furnish up an every-day menu.

A week's menus planned in advance is a definite means toward economy. Money, time and labor are saved thereby. The tendency toward extravagant marketing is checked and there is no frantic haste when it's nearly meal time and nothing planned. Often in sheer panic because the cupboard so closely resembles Old Mother Hubbard's we rush out and buy chops or steak we can't afford because they will cook quickly.

Save Work, Too

Advance planning often enables you to double up on cooking processes, too. Enough potatoes can be boiled at one time for the immediate meal and creamed potatoes, hashed brown or any one of a number of savory uses planned for the following one. A meat pie, timbale, hash or croquettes will take care of the left-overs from the weekly roast.

Bread pudding, bread crumb pancakes or a mock duck use up a week's accumulation of stale bread and crumbs. A jellied salad in the middle of the week finishes odds and ends of fruits and vegetables.

_cookies and cakes which have lost their freshness can be made into delectable desserts. Stale cake, for instance, is fine in a "trifle." Cut stale sponge cake in thin slices and spread each slice with jelly or jam. Put into a mold and pour boiled custard over. Cover the mold and put in the refrigerator for all day and serve with whipped cream masking the mold after it is turned out on the best Haviland chop-plate.

A modern version of the old-fashioned trifle is the popular ice-box cake. Try making it with crisp butter cookies instead of sponge cake or lady-fingers. It's quite different and altogether delicious.

Two cups whipping cream, 4 tablespoons powdered sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 3-4 teaspoon almond flavoring, 32 butter cookies, 3 peaches.

Whip cream, add sugar, salt and flavoring. Line bottom and sides of a seven-inch spring form with cookies. Add layer of whipped cream, then another layer of cookies and repeat layer for layer until all are used. Top with cream and decorate with half peach in the center and strips of peach around to imitate sunburst. Chill in refrigerator for at least three hours before serving.

School Is Melting Pot for the Good And Bad Alike

By Olive Roberts Barton

"Well," declared Mrs. Miller firmly, "I'm not going to have my Mary sit across the aisle from that Green boy. And right on her other side is Dot Brown. You know the Browns. Dot's a boy-chaser already, and she wears high heels and uses lipstick and she isn't fourteen yet."

"It's just terrible," sighed Mrs. Jones. "I'm not going to have my Charles march in ranks with Pete Sazillo either. Pete's father is that tough who gets put into jail every other year for something. They suspect the boy of taking money from cloakrooms last year."

"I think it's awful the way they mix them up in school," worried Mrs. Miller. "Why can't they put the nice children together and let the rest of them be by themselves?"

Just Talk.

The two ladies, of course, did nothing about it in spite of their talking. They knew that in public school there can be little picking and choosing; that some children lose by bad example and others gain. They knew, too, that all the children could gain something in behavior and character by emulating the leaders in their respective rooms rather than being unduly influenced by the bad examples near them.

In all democratic institutions (of which school is but one)—in the home, at church, on the street, at a ball game, at a dance, any place that young people are thrown together in groups—there are bound to be undesirable contacts.

As it happens, such contacts are often beneficial, as they serve as object lessons of behavior to be avoided.

Mary Miller, of course, could ask to have her seat changed if the Green boy was annoying her or was too dirty to be tolerated. On the other hand, foolish Dot, unless she exerted undue influence and smelled too overwhelmingly of musk, could not dent Mary's sense of good taste, if Mary had enough training at home to recognize vulgarly when she saw it.

Home Influence Prevails.

To march beside dishonest Peter, who had never had a chance to learn honesty, need not affect either Charles' morals or affect his social prestige. It is rather dubious pride that will not permit its possessor to tolerate for two minutes another child who has never had a chance.

Public school is a place of give and take. There are unfortunate circumstances, to be sure, that could stand correcting, but that is true of most contacts in life. I do not see what is to be done about it. It is smelting pot, a mixing bowl, whatever we choose to call it. The influence is toward an ideal.

No class as a whole is ever hand-picked, and it is better so. What would become of the "rest" that Mrs. Miller condemns to limbo? One of the noblest tasks of the whole system is to elevate those who need it to a better and higher level. And sadly enough, many need it.

EXPLOITLESS PROMOTION

Athletic history is dotted with names of famous promoters, great athletes and grand old figures of sport. Tex Rickard and Jack Kearns were the Barnums of professional boxing. Red Grange topped a host of brilliant football performers. There were Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth and Hans Wagner in organized baseball. John L. Sullivan, "Gentleman Jim" Corbett and Jack Dempsey were aces of heavyweight fighting.

Fans thrilled to their every deed, but almost always it was a case of 100 percent for self and let the customers like it.

Out of the tangle of professional and amateur sports has come a modern promoter who has staged three outstanding shows in the last five years and every cent above actual expenses in each case has gone to worthwhile charities.

They may never erect a "Madison Square Garden" monument or dedicate a college football stadium to Arch Ward, sports editor of the Chicago Tribune, but it will be a long, cold day before another more ingenious promoter comes along. Discount the fact that he had access to the greatest publicity hookup in the world and you still have a man unique enough to have conceived the idea of an all-star major league baseball game and an all-star college-football game as well as one with the necessary courage to promote boxing's most complicated, yet most entertaining spectacle, the Golden Gloves.

Walter Camp selected all-American football teams thirty years ago and the fans said: "What a team that would be, if you could get them all together on one squad."

Year after year writers have named all-American and all-National league baseball teams and again the fans have said: "Wouldn't I like to see Lou Gehrig, Babe Ruth, Jimmy Fox, Mickey Cochrane, Charley Gehring, Al Simmons and Joe Cronin all on one baseball club!"

Arch Ward heard talk like that and it set his active brain working at top speed. Why not? he must have thought. And, he not only put one across, but both of them. He had fans name all-star big league teams and actually talked officials into getting them together on one field. The moguls were jealous of the huge crowd the game attracted and took it away from him the next year.

Arch was not stopped. He had the fans pick an all-American football team and he got the boys together and they actually outplayed the best pro football team in the country at Soldier's field, Chicago, before nearly 80,000 fans who got their money's worth out of the show. Ward has stolen the thunder of the professional fight promoters for more than five years with the Golden Gloves. Teams of boxers from Germany and Italy have been brought to the United States.

Everything the man has tried has been a success, and the best part of it is that it hasn't been necessary to misrepresent the facts in order to fill the stands. Hats off to the exploitless promoter.

PENNSYLVANIA REJECTS NEW DEAL

Headlines say that Pennsylvania voters turned down the New Deal in issues presented on occasion of the state-wide primary election. That is true only to the extent that the New Dealers sought to popularize their cause by hitching it to the Roosevelt kite.

It appears that Governor Earle, eminent New Dealer, went to the people with a proposal that they authorize a constitutional convention. They rejected his proposal by a majority of 150,000.

That in itself need have been no particular slap at the New Deal. This state has repeatedly rejected constitutional amendments, and it probably would reject the proposal of a convention. What made the Pennsylvania case have a New Deal flavor was the fact that Governor Earle made that the issue of the campaign. He contended that a new constitution would make more feasible the carrying out of the New Deal objectives, one of which was "more borrowing power." Opponents cited the New Deal extravagance and turned out to be a majority.

Governor Earle was the man chosen by President Roosevelt to carry his message to the young Democrats in convention in Milwaukee this summer.

POLITENESS FROM POLICE

The police of St. Louis have been ordered to be polite or lose their jobs. Police Chief John J. McCarthy has ruled that "Hey, you!" is out, that wise-cracks have had their day, and that "citizens are entitled to considerate and courteous treatment at all times and under all circumstances."

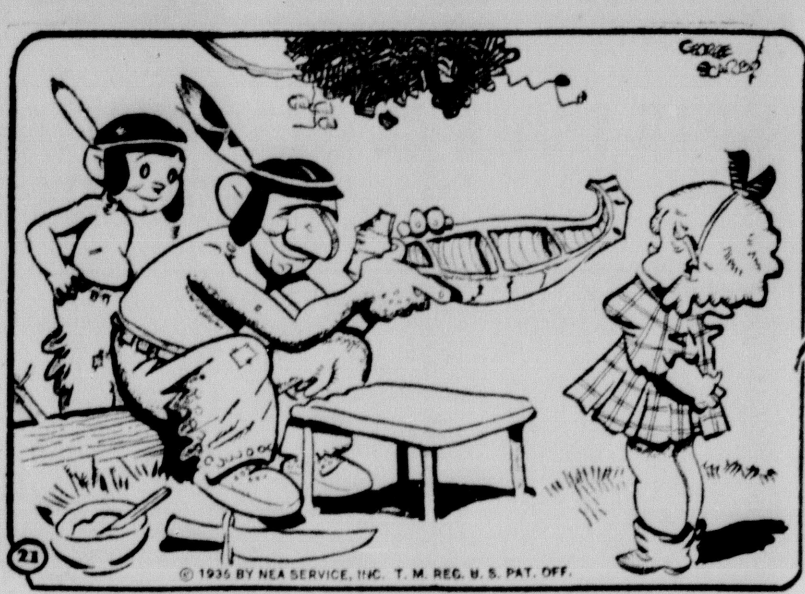

It is a revealing commentary on American life that the issuance of such highly sensible orders should be accounted news.

A police department ought to be courteous and polite. Policemen are public servants; one would suppose that a recent measure of politeness and courtesy could be taken for granted. But in most cities the reverse is true.

The average copper is honest enough and well-intentioned enough, but the idea of treating taxpayers with a modicum of civility never seems to enter his head. We greatly need a few more police chiefs with ideas like those of St. Louis' McCarthy.

We're what you might call the poor man's Ziegfeld. —Morton Minsky, New York burlesque show producer.

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

The brilliant moon rose very high and then the bunch heard Goldy sigh. "I've heard enough of singing. I would like to go to bed. "If we stay up too late we'll be just sleepyheads, at dawn, you see." "I think the little girl is right," an Indian promptly said. "Now, we've fixed tents for all of you, so all you really need to do is crawl right in and go to sleep. I trust you will sleep well. "The girls' tent is right over there. The boys can pick one anywhere." Then Scouty jumped up to his feet and shouted, "This is swell!"

The two girls smiled and promptly went into their little Indian tent. The boys picked out another. Soon they all were fast asleep.

At dawn an Indian gave a shout, and all the Tynymites rushed out. "You sure slept sound," the Indian said. "I did not hear you peep."

"Now, who would like a bite to eat? Would eggs and bacon be a treat?" "You bet they would,"

said Goldy. "And I'll help you cook them, too. "Then, later, it will be a lark if we can find some nice birch bark, and get one of the Indians to make us a bark canoe."

The tots could hardly wait until they sat right down to have their fill. Wee Dotty cooked a breakfast that was fit for any king.

Then everybody had a feast. Each Tyny's waistline was inflated. Soon Duncy said, "Oh, goodness, I can't eat another thing."

An Indian shortly joined the bunch and said, "I've followed Goldy's bunch. Here is a lot of birch bark and I'll make canoes right now."

He shaped a couple. They looked fine. Wee Goldy cried, "The first one's mine." Then Scouty said, "They're dandy ones. I wish you'd show me how."

PIRATES HOLD KEY TO HOPES OF "BIG THREE"

What Bucs Do With Cubs May Decide Flag Winner

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The Pittsburgh Pirates, who aren't likely to finish higher than fourth in the National League this season, today found themselves in the midst of the torrid pennant battle between Chicago's flying Cubs and the rough and tumble St. Louis Cardinals with a possibility that their actions may decide the scrap.

The Bucs play a pair of games at Chicago today and tomorrow while the Cards play three contests with the Reds. Then Pittsburgh moves to St. Louis for a pair while the Cubs are idle and after that the pennant rivals meet in a five-game hand-to-hand conflict.

After a day of complete idleness for all major league clubs yesterday the standing of the Cubs and Cards and the New York Giants, who haven't been completely eliminated from the race yet, was as follows:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cubs	95	92	.646
Cards	91	93	.632
Giants	84	96	.600

Here's Possibility

If the Cards should go straight through their five games against Cincinnati and Pittsburgh and the Bucs should knock off the Cubs a couple of times to end Chicago's 16-game winning streak, the final series would open with the standing this way:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Cards	95	94	.633

That would mean Chicago would have to win four out of five to capture the flag outright while anything better than a 2-3 loss would win for St. Louis. If Pittsburgh should lose two to Chicago and win two from St. Louis, however, even though the Cards trim Cincinnati's fifth-place aspirants, the situation would be far different. The Cubs would thus gain a three-game lead, needing only one victory to tie and two to win the flag. Further complicating the situation, by trimming both leaders Pittsburgh could give the Giants a bare chance to come through. New York plays seven games against the Braves, five against Brooklyn and two against the Phillies and has only the slimmest kind of a chance to cop the flag without winning them all.

Compared to that situation the American League pennant chase is a cut and dried affair. The Tigers have been regarded as "in" for some time and they may possibly clinch the flag today. The current standing shows Detroit leading New York by 7½ games with nine to go for each club.

SANDLOT BALL STARS TO PLAY JAPAN SERIES

May Stop Off At the Philippines On Orient Tour

Chicago, Sept. 21—(AP)—An "All-America" squad of 18 college, high school and sandlot baseball players, selected from all parts of the country, will sail from San Francisco Oct. 17 to play a series of games in Japan.

The squad, selected by the Amateur Baseball Congress of America and representatives of the American Olympic committee, will play 20 games in Japan, and may stop off in Manila, P. I., for an eight game series.

The group, announced by Leslie Man, former major league baseball star, who with Max Carey, former manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, will be in charge, includes seven pitchers, two catchers, six infielders and three outfielders. They will report to Mann and Carey at Bloomington, Ill., Sept. 29.

The squad includes pitcher Joseph Copp, Springfield, Ill., and infielders Bob Chiao, Spring Valley, Ill., and R. Goldsmith, Bloomington, Ill.

SCHMIDT STILL DISSATISFIED WITH RESULTS

Groans At Ohio State's Lack of Blocking

Chicago, Sept. 21—(AP)—Big Ten football coaches, with one or two exceptions, called on their candidates today to display how much they have learned in nearly two weeks of practice.

One exception was Francis Schmidt of Ohio State, who gave his boys their first big examination yesterday. After the Buckeye regulars had mauled the second team, 39 to 9, Schmidt was greatly depressed.

"The blocking was terrible," he groaned. "We've got to do a lot better than that." Bo McMillin gave Indiana a surprise scrimmage and saw three sophomores Ted Livingston, an end, C. W. Norton, halfback, and Bob Briggs, tackle, distinguish themselves defensively. Chicago also scrimmaged, but Coach Clark Shaughnessy expected to come right back today with another stiff drill.

Secret Practices
The secret practice phase dropped up at Minnesota and Iowa, and will govern Michigan's workouts starting Monday. The Gophers worked on forward passes behind locked gates, and Ossie Solem secluded the Iowa squad for a light session. Both squads were down for full-length scrimmage today.

Harry Kipke worked on the punting element of Michigan's famous "punch, prayer and pass" offense with Captain Bill Renner and fullback Cedric Sweet getting special attention. The Wolverines faced their hardest session of the season, a game between the varsity and reserves, today.

Illinois, Wisconsin, Northwestern and Purdue went through light drills, while the Notre Dame varsity polished up plays for a regulation game against the outstanding sophomore candidates today.

LOUIS AND BAER TO WIND UP HARD TRAINING TODAY

Battlers Will Rest Up for Their Scrap on Tuesday Evening

Pompton Lakes, N. J., Sept. 21—(AP)—Joe Louis' sparring partners today prepared for a final date with their rough playmate before he climbs through the ropes for his battle with Max Baer Tuesday night.

A goodly crowd was expected to be on hand to see the tan thumper wind up his training and the general belief was that some of the spar mates would sing their training camp swan songs from a horizontal position. Louis, like Dempsey, doesn't like to pull his punches in training. He has to have sparring partners, however, and one way to discourage them, he has found, is to whack them too solidly.

Today, however, he will not have to worry about their throwing up the job. They are leaving camp anyway and Joe probably will see to it that they earn their last day's pay. Plans call for Louis boxing seven or eight rounds before calling it quits to store energy for the Yankee Stadium clash.

All members of the Brown Bomber's staff expressed confidence that he would stop Baer before the fight had progressed very far.

BAER WANTS TO FLY

Speculator, N. Y., Sept. 21—(AP)—There's plenty of verbal battling going on about it, but Max Baer was determined today to take another leaf from the book of Gene Tunney, the man who never overlooked a bet, and fly down to fight Joe Louis in the Yankee Stadium Tuesday night.

Tunney, who first made this tiny Adirondack town a fight camp, flew from here in a seaplane to the last championship defense of his career, against Tom Heeney, in New York in 1928. He also flew from Stroudsburg, in the Pocono mountains, to Philadelphia for his title triumph over Jack Dempsey in the rain of the Sesqui-Centennial Stadium in 1926.

Gene said then that flying was a gesture to upset Dempsey, who was so harassed by that time that he didn't care if Tunney came afoot or on horseback.

Manager Opposed
Baer is determined to fly to the fight just as Tunney did, but Mike Jacobs, promoting what looks like the first $1,000,000 prize fight in New York in eight years, is as violently opposed as Tex Rickard was when Gene broached the subject. But Mike, apparently, will have no better success than Rickard did.

"Plane planned to send after you is in the workshop stop. No can use stop. Suggest take train," Jacobs wired Baer. Max wants to fly, he'd like to fly in the best, but more than that he wants his way. "There's a flying junk shop resting on the lake here," he informed Jacobs. "Don't bother about plane in workshop. Will come down in this one."

This assured Baer of flying to New York in the finest, safest, most palatial ship Jacobs can beg, borrow, steal, or even hire.

"He'd better not think I'm kidding, either," Max said today. "I'm coming by air, and I'm not leaving here until Tuesday morning."

MILLWAY WINNER AT SCHULER HALL FRIDAY EVENING

"Millway", the smooth running toad of Millway Hatchery, won the blue ribbon with D. C. Austin up, while the big surprise of the evening was the winning of second place by "Better Light Better Sight" who made a good showing in the first night's race. Much credit is given for the steeds speed in the training by Bob Herodger for the Illinois Northern Utilities Co. "Better Light Better Sight" of the Illinois Northern Utilities Co. crowded out "Ambulance" Willard Jones' entry, who also ran for third place.

Tonight is the last night of the races and carnival, featuring free dancing to Hot Shots orchestra.

POOR BUTTERFLY?

Dixon A. C. Boxers Count 5-2 Win Over Team From Bloomington Friday Eve

Bernie Stunkle In a Grudge Bout With Connie Frey

A 5 to 2 victory was chalked up by Dixon A. C. boxers over Bloomington last evening at the airport before a large audience. Judges for the matches were "Butch" Maurer of Rock Falls and Joe Sharkey, timekeeper was Tim Sullivan. Robert Anderson acted as an announcer and Jack Sharkey refereed.

In the first bout at a weight of 175 pounds Tom Sutherland gave Bloomington a flying start by outpointing and all but knocking out Killer Hess of Woosung. Hess appeared more cautious than usual at the beginning of the fight but a few left jabs by Sutherland found his jaw and thereafter Hess kept walking into Sutherland's punches without offering much of a defense. In the second round Hess punished Sutherland's body considerably but in the third he was powerless against the Bloomington boy who battered his face and torso until Hess rocked dangerously near a knockout.

LaTue Pressed.
At 160 pounds, Loren Henrichs was knocked out by Billy LeHue in the second round. In the first round and part of the second Henrichs appeared to have the situation pretty well in hand. Quicker than LeHue he pounded Billy at close range and brought blood from LeHue's face but suddenly in the second round he was felled by a long swinging right to the jaw and failed to rise.

William Foli and Maurice Stunkle staged a fast bout in the welterweight class. Foli darted in with a lightning-like attack in the first round and but for the cool-headedness of the Steward boy would have rushed him of his feet. Stunkle parried these rushes however and then plodded around the ring after Foli keeping him continually on the defensive. In the second he jolted Foli with several quick lefts and uppercuts and had the Bloomington boy groggy several times, but failed to follow up his advantage. In the third Stunkle caught the Foli with a quick left and a brief exchange of punches to the face gave Stunkle an even wider advantage when Foli slipped twice and fell to the canvas.

Vozikis Worried.
Pete Vozikis, diminutive Moine fighter at 132 pounds was outboxed by Jack Whitegill. With a pe-cellular, weaving cobra-like attack. Whitegill felled Vozikis completely out of position and then whalloped him with a hard left. Vozikis kept crowding his rival but could not penetrate his defenses without meeting that baffling defense and escaping that fierce left which was flung at him constantly. When Vozikis opened up with an offense of his own in the second he found Whitegill capable of ducking out of reach continually. Vozikis' lefts kept whirling ineffectively over his opponent's head. Sam Karben counted his first knockout in a Dixon ring by stowing away Joe Dennis in the final round of their match at 130 pounds. Karben opened the gory battle by smearing Dennis' face with blood. He then outboxed Dennis, fading away from the latter's rushes, then stepped in and nailed him again and again with uppercuts. Karben's knockout punch was a hard uppercut that appeared somewhat low at first.

The semi-windup, a five round affair between Connie Frey and Bernard Stunkle suddenly developed into a savage, grudge fight that kept the fans on edge and finally ended in a victory for Stunkle.

Finds Weak Spot.
In the first round after a lot of glove flinging Stunkle found a weak spot on Frey in the region of his kidney and in the clinches Stunkle aggravated Frey by butting him in the stomach with his head. Frey enraged became vicious and tore into Stunkle with a vengeance. Both fighters glowered with rage. Frey losing control of his boxing wildly assaulted Stunkle with a volley of haymakers some of which were successful. Stunkle kept his head and pounded away at Frey's kidneys when they clinched angering Frey still more. In the fourth round the Bloomington fighter was all but out on his feet but was game to the last second. He took an unmerciful clubbing from Stunkle and hit the floor once but arose at the ten count and layed away at his tormentor until he was practically exhausted.

The feature five round bout between Louis Viscioni and Duney was awarded Viscioni on points. It was a tame affair particularly the first round in which the pair danced around without striking a blow that the crowd yelled in disgust for action. The third and fourth rounds saw the two wading into each other with hard lefts to the body and stinging uppercuts, but frequent clinching and shoving marred the bout.

LINEMEN ARE YALE'S GREAT PRESENT NEED

Prospects Are Bright for Bulldogs Says Coach Pond

(This is another of a series on prospects of major college football teams.)

Gales Ferry, Conn., Sept. 21—(AP)—If Ducky Pond can develop about four top flight linemen as he administers regular doses of his famed psychology to his eager Yale football squad, the Bulldogs will again out-fight, out-smart and out-play their "Big Three" rivals.

This enthusiastic young football director has been drilling 61 impressive candidates at this rowing camp for the past week and today, just before they headed back to New Haven, he described his squad as "the finest I have ever seen at Yale."

"Prospects are much brighter than when we first took hold last year," he said. "Most of the players know more about the game than they did then and, what is much more important, they are better acquainted with the coaching staff and it with them."

Backfield Better
"At this time the backfield looks much better than the line. We need another durable tackle, two strong guards and a 60-minute center for our starting team. And all four of them must be of the iron-man type for our replacements are not going to be as numerous as last season."

Five of the 11 dependables, inspired by Pond into upsetting the supposedly unbeatable Princeton Tigers before ending in a blaze of glory the following week against Harvard, have departed and another has become ineligible. But three of the crack backfield quartet are available, Jerry Roscoe, Bernie Rankin and Captain Jim Whitehead, and a sophomore, Clint Frank seems a worthy successor for Stratford Morton at right half.

The Yale schedule: Oct. 5, New Hampshire; 12, Pennsylvania at Philadelphia; 19, Navy; 26, Army; Nov. 2, Dartmouth; 9, Brown; 16, open; 23, Harvard at Cambridge; 30, Princeton.

Millway Chix Ten To Play Benefit Game Wednesday

The Millway Chix softball team will play the Sterling Cyros at the airport field at 7:30 P. M. Wednesday, September 25, in a benefit softball game for Tom "Slat" Hasselberg, who broke his leg while playing with the Chix against Sterling several weeks ago. Thurlie D. Swain, manager of the Chix team said Friday.

It is hoped a large crowd will attend the game which is sure to pattern the many interesting contests held by the Dixon City league softball teams here all summer. Hasselberg played first base or second base in fact any position he was assigned on the Knacks Leaders team, capably. He was one of the outstanding City league players selected by the Millways for their inter-city contest with Sterling.

Popular as "Slat" was with his teammates and with the crowds who were entertained by his snappy chatter in the field and his antics at bat, it was thought fitting he should receive some recognition for his efforts during his illness.

HARNESS RACES AT OREGON TO BRING CROWDS

Two Paces and Two Trots Will Be On Program

Harness racing fans will have an opportunity of witnessing an interesting program of events Sunday afternoon at the Ogle county fair grounds north of Oregon, when a special one day meet is expected to attract a large crowd. Secretary Landers of the Ogle county fair association has been successful in co-operating with owners, in securing a large entry list for the day.

The program calls for four races to be conducted under the American Trotting association rules consisting of a 2:18 pace, 2:22 trot, 2:12 pace and 2:14 trot, assuring those attending of 12 heats of fast racing. The stables at the fair grounds began filling up with horses the first of the week, which have completed the harness racing season in the county fair circuit in northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin and eastern Iowa. It was expected that not less than 100 head of racing stock would be on hand for Sunday afternoon's program.

Didrikson Is Out Of Running; Open Golf Tournament

Hot Springs, Va., Sept. 21—(AP)—With advantage of playing on his home course in his favor, young Sam Snead, assistant professional at the Homestead, today endeavored to hold the three-point lead he achieved yesterday in the first half of the $2500 Cascades 72-hole open golf championship.

He chalked up 144 by rounding the first 18 holes in 68 and the second in 76, but was closely pushed by John Revolta, of Milwaukee, and Bill Burke, of Cleveland, both of whom shot 147.

FOOTBALL TO HOLD PUBLIC EYE 2 MONTHS

Small Schools To Test the Larger Grid Teams

New York, Sept. 21—(AP)—King Football crowded into the national sports scene for a two month's reign today with teams going into action in most sections of the country.

Most of the opening games were expected to be one-sided affairs with major colleges figuring to get their machines running smoothly for the stiffer tests ahead and some of the smaller institutions nursing a forlorn hope of upsetting their more highly rated rivals and gaining national fame.

In the east, the juggernaut of Holy Cross entertains Rhode Island State at Worcester, Mass., while Chick Meehan will send his Manhattan team against Little Niagara in New York. Villanova takes on Penn Military while Alfred meets Adrian. Northwestern plays American International and West Liberty encounters Holbrook.

In the Southwest conference, Rice, Baylor, Southern Methodist, Texas A. & M. and Texas Christian answer the starting whistle, the first two playing at night under the lights. Rice meets St. Mary of Texas; Southern Methodist faces Denton Teachers; Baylor plays Southwestern; the Aggies meet Stephen F. Austin Teachers and Texas Christian meets Howard Payne.

Small Schools Meet
In the South Davidson takes on tiny Elon; Hampden Sydney meets V. M. I. and William and Mary meets Virginia while Duke's vaunted power will be tested by Wake Forest. South Carolina meets Erskine and Vanderbilt clashes with Union University.

In the Far West the conference campaign opens with Washington State locking horns with Whitman and Oregon playing Linfield. Utah State and Montana State meet in the only game in the Rocky Mountain group.

A number of teams opened their seasons last night. Pop Warner saw his Temple team, paced by Smukler who Warner says is the best back he ever coached, roll over St. Joseph's college 51-0. Smukler figured in five of the eight touchdowns carrying the ball across himself three times.

A scrappy band from Illinois Wesleyan University put up a dogged fight before being subdued by Duquesne in another flood light game. Duquesne put on a last period spurt to win, 20-6.

An experimental high-powered Diesel engine for aircraft has been produced in Russia and in tests has shown a fuel consumption ranging between 0.35 and 0.37 pounds per horsepower hour.

earing in men's open competition, was entirely out of the running as more than two dozen players teed off for the second 36 today. She shot 174 yesterday, but hoped to get her short game and puts working better today.

FOXX GAINING ON VAUGHAN IN BATTING RACE

Current Week Replete
With Changes in the Batting Race

New York, Sept. 21—(AP)—The rise of one important big league figure and the fall of another furnished the hitting high spots of the major leagues during the semi-final week of the 1935 season.

Jimmie Foxx of the Athletics, bidding for the American League crown, came close to his objective as he continued his brilliant spurt for another ten point gain in the stretch which started a week ago. Floyd (Arky) Vaughn, whose aim has been to lead the National League with a 400 mark or better, ran into a series slump that seemed to have wiped out his chances.

Vaughn, close to 400 all season, hit safely only three times in 19 official trips to the plate and dropped ten points to 387. Vaughn's lead was unchallenged as his nearest rival, Joe Medwick of St. Louis, dropped six points to 357 and was in danger of losing his place to Chicago's Gabby Hartnett.

Foxx hit a 500 clip through the week with 15 blows in 30 times up, moved from fifth place among the American League leaders to second, one point behind Joe Vismick of Cleveland.

The first ten regulars in each major league follow:

PAW PAW NEWS

By Mrs. John Ulrey.

Paw Paw—The members of the Builders' class of the Methodist church held their first fall meeting last Friday at the home of Mrs. William Ramey. Nearly all of the members were in attendance and business plans were made for the season. Election of officers for the coming year resulted as follows:

President, Mrs. Ray Willard; vice president, Mrs. H. G. Worsley; secretary, Mrs. Harrison Beemer. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. S. R. Dickie and Mrs. Wayne Niebergall.

The many friends of Mrs. Gerlie Smith were very sorry to learn of her accident in Iowa last week Wednesday. Mrs. Smith had accompanied her niece, Miss Esther Smith who had been a guest here, to her home in Cedar Rapids. After a short visit with her brother Leonard and family she started to the Algonia, Iowa, where her sister, Mrs. El Gilmore, resides, intending to make a short stop there on the return trip home. In some unaccountable way which she herself cannot describe, she lost control of her car for an instant and in that time the accident happened. The car swerved into the ditch and overturned. She sustained a very severe fracture of the knee, three broken ribs, several stitches were taken to close a gash in her face and she was otherwise cut and bruised. Passersby gave first aid and took her to the Kossuth hospital in Algonia, Iowa, where she is at present receiving the best of medical care. The knee has been placed in a cast and as soon as possible she will be removed to her sister's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Henry entertained the members of their party Sunday. A scramble dinner was served and those participating in the pleasant day were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Pye and family of Batavia, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Henry and son Gene and Mrs. MacGallagher and family.

Pictures of all the parade groups were put on display at the Edwards & Cass store Thursday morning and any one wanting them may leave orders with Rev. McKelvey. Mr. and Mrs. Hilman and two

The charger, a six volt generator for supplying current to farm radio receivers, was mounted firmly on an iron pipe of substantial dimensions, but the rhythmic momentum of the propeller rotations in the strong wind finally snapped the solidly mounted pipe.

DIXON CITIZENS BECOMING SCOUT- MINDED IN FACT

Culmination of Plans for Campaign Comes in Civic Dinner

Dixon citizens have become Scout-minded in the past few days as plans for the Scout Drive which but a week ago were in the making are rapidly materializing. General Chairman George B. Fleuhr said today because of the splendid cooperation of Mayor William Slothower, superintendents of industries, ministerial and professional groups his chairman of different committees have found it possible to accomplish in a short time what might have taken weeks.

Many have been contacted this week and the informing program will culminate in the Recognition banquet Monday evening at 6:30 at the Masonic Temple. According to Mrs. T. Jason Miller, who is in charge of arrangements, a large number of reservations have been made, and more are coming in over Sunday. It looks as if a large percentage of Dixon citizenry will hear these Scout authorities as they present their far reaching program and show the practical as well as the inspirational slants on Scouting values.

There will be no solicitation of funds Monday evening. Philanthropists and industrial laborers, ministers and professional men, educators and business men will be grouped together for one purpose—the advancement of Scouting.

Following is the program which has been arranged under the direction of Mrs. John G. Ralston: Evening Program.

6:30—Call meeting to order. Invocation.

6:30 to 7:15—Dinner. Scout demonstration.

7:15 to 7:25—Singing. Harold Boltz, leader.

7:25 to 7:30—Chairman remarks. John G. Ralston, President Blackhawk Area Council, Boy Scouts of America.

7:30 to 7:35—Greetings from Mayor Slothower.

7:35 to 7:40—Recognition of men and women directors of the drive.

7:40 to 7:45—Award to leaders (girls)—Mrs. Harry Warner.

7:45 to 7:50—Award to leaders (men)—Oscar Berga, vice president Lee County Boy Scouts.

7:50 to 7:55—Award to Council Members—Mrs. John G. Ralston.

7:55 to 8:05—Moving picture—Dixon Girl and Boy Scouts.

8:05 to 8:10—Award to Eaglets—Mrs. Harry Warner.

8:10 to 8:20—Drive speech.

8:20 to 8:50—Speaker of the evening, Dr. John Gordon of Rockford.

9:00—Closing. Taps.

Window Display. The Girl and Boy Scouts make the most of their leisure time is evident by the fine displays in the Rodesch building windows on Galena avenue.

This collection is drawing a great deal of attention by passersby in the downtown district today.

Local Director Dorothy Hardy, with the assistance of her troop leaders, has assembled an interesting array of hand-made articles. It includes jewelry and bits of finery as well as bird houses, framed pictures, ash trays and scrap books. It shows that the Girl Scouts are versatile, even in their arts and crafts.

Because of the limited time all camp Scouts were not reached. Those contributing range from the smallest Brownies to girls in the high school troops. Among those who donate were: Dorothy Goeke, girl hasn't seen anybody but John, Susie?"

"Seems like she ain't," replied Susie. "Maybe she's done caught the solitary bug from crazy Bertha Gibbs."

Mrs. McNeill laughed, then grew sober. "She's got no business being alone in that house with Bertha. I've an idea she came without her mother's consent. I must look into it, Susie."

John arrived just in time for dinner, almost before the soup was finished his mother was asking him questions about Elaine. His reticence surprised her. Could Susie be right about his being "daffy" over the girl? She said, "John, I must see her! She's got no business in the world being in that house. Whatever induced her to come? Just a whim?"

"It seems so," answered John. "She needed a rest."

Mrs. McNeill said, "I'm afraid I wouldn't recognize her now. I recall her as a handsome, imperious child. How is Bertha reacting to it all, John?"

"More reasonably than you'd expect," John replied. "But I feel darn'd uneasy about it, just the same. I've just been thinking, Mother, couldn't we ask her over here to finish out her visit?"

"Of course we could," she told him. "I've been planning the same thing myself. Go over after dinner and bring her to me. I think I can convince her that she ought to come to us."

Ruth was not prepared for John's request that she run over to see his mother with him. It threw her into a panic. She exclaimed, "Why, John! I didn't know your mother was at home."

"She came back today," John told her.

He did not let her wait to "primp," as he called it, but seized her hand and drew her, running, after him across the lawn.

MRS. McNEILL met them in the hall and kissed Ruth matter-of-factly as she greeted her. She said, "You're a dear child to come. John says you haven't been seeing people, but I felt you wouldn't mind seeing me." She was leading Ruth into the big living room and seating her on a divan as she talked. The girl's pants were unfastened. She had been accepted as Elaine, even in the clear lamplight. Perhaps there was nothing to fear, after all. She looked shyly at John and his beaming smile reassured her.

He said, "Mother's got a plan. A swell one—"

"What is it?" Ruth asked, her voice a little flutery.

"It's this," said Mrs. McNeill. "You're to go back and pack your clothes and come to us at once. You're not to stay another night in that desolate old barn. It's not practical. It's not even safe."

Ruth answered, surprised and touched, "Oh, but I couldn't do that. I couldn't."

Mrs. McNeill asked pointedly, "Does your mother know you are here, Elaine?"

"No," answered Ruth, flushing boldly.

"And do you think she'd approve of your being here alone?" continued Mrs. McNeill firmly.

"No. I suppose she wouldn't."

"Well then!" said Mrs. McNeill, as if that settled it. "Do you want John to tell old Bertha Gibbs you're coming, or would you rather do it yourself?"

Ruth replied, hitting her chin stubbornly, "If it's Bertha you're thinking about, Mrs. McNeill, John's as harmless as a child. She's warned me about her several times." (with a quick smile at him) "But I've always contended she's all right. She's just eccentric and childish."

Mrs. McNeill said reasonably, "We are in a position to know more about Bertha Gibbs than you do, Elaine. She's quite definitely off. Not violent, I grant you, but off. She's nursed grudges against certain people for years. Your stepfather among them. Your mother, too, possibly. No doubt you know why. She worshipped your Uncle Duncan."

"Yes," murmured Ruth, though what Mrs. McNeill had just said made no sense to her. She was thinking, "I can't come over here and stay. I won't. There's a limit to my outrageous nerve." With all her strength she would resist them. She allowed her determination to show in her face as she looked at Mrs. McNeill. She said, exactly as the imperious Elaine Chalmers would have said it, "You're kind to ask me to come, but I'm quite all right where I am. It's an adventure I wouldn't miss."

MRS. McNEILL said, with a little gesture of defeat but no resentment, "Then stay on for a while, dear, and talk to me. I remember you as a little girl, and yet I don't remember you either. At least you've not turned out as I thought you would."

Ruth supplied with a smile, "I'm not as large as I promised to be, and my hair's darker. My mother's hair turned dark, too, though not so much."

She was quoting Penny almost word for word.

Mrs. McNeill nodded. "It's good to see one of the Hunters back again. There've been Hunters here for generations. Worthwhile misses them now. Is your mother well?"

"Yes, thank you," Ruth replied.

Mrs. McNeill was thinking, "She's surprisingly simple and unaffected. And she's a Hunter. No wonder John's infatuated. I can see he is. He doesn't take his eyes off her. He really mustn't fall in love with her. She wouldn't have him, or, if she did, it wouldn't work. Wealth's a barrier to the normal Mrs. McNeill brings happiness—"

Yet, through and around these thoughts, there wove a web of polite conversation there in the gracious big parlor, autumn flowers nodding from pedestals and vases and polished floors reflecting the lamplight.

All the while Ruth was thinking, "Elaine and John should marry, after all. It wouldn't matter about

In Memoriam

The following from the Ashland, Neb., Gazette of Sept. 5, recounts the passing of a former Lee county resident, Miss Fannie Martin, who Palmyra township. Miss Martin formerly lived at Gap Grove in was born and raised in Palmyra township but years ago removed to Nebraska and settled on a homestead near Ithaca, later going to Ashland where she had made her home for the past 19 years. She is survived by a brother, George C.; four nieces, Mrs. Winnie Booher of Ashland; Mrs. Addie Mays of Greenwood; Mrs. Adie Nightengale of Dixon; and Mrs. Frank Madden of Gardner, Ore.; two nephews, C. B. Martin of Ashland and H. B. Miller of Tacoma, Wash.

The following tribute to her was written by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mitchell Chapple of Boston, Mass. Mrs. Chapple is an old schoolmate and life-long friend of Miss Martin and had kept in close touch during their life time. Mr. Chapple is editor of the National magazine and a lecturer of note and he and his wife have been frequent visitors at the home of Miss Martin and her brothers:

FANNIE B. MARTIN

Many noble souls who have added much to the sum total of human happiness have seldom seen their names in print. In the aggregate they may have rendered more service to fellow kind than those whose deeds are heralded in tributes as great public benefactors.

Calling the roll of cherished friends in our sphere of acquaintances, I am reminded of the late Miss Fannie Martin. Born on a farm at Gap Grove, Ill., she began life with an ambition which she achieved, to make friends, to keep friends and deserve friends. All who came within the circle of her acquaintance felt the beauty and cheery glow of her girlhood and the inspiration of mature womanhood.

As a pupil in the Gap Grove school or as a teacher in later years, Fannie Martin was well known as one who made friends. In early womanhood she traveled in Europe as instructor for the Page family of children. Even to the last day of a long life she journeyed on in fancy in her wonderful letters to friends.

A lively, cheery correspondent, she always seemed very close to friends, for her letters had the philosophy and inspiration of everyday life in vivid descriptions, with a sympathetic interest for the reader's viewpoint. In her rocking chair, in later years, she followed with maps and literature the friends who were traveling. No matter what part of the world they might be—she was with them.

Moving to a farm in Nebraska with her parents and brothers, the maker in the best sense of the word, for her welcoming door was open to late Edward Martin and George Martin who survives her, she was a home-friends, neighbors and kinsfolk. During the last years of her life she lived with her brothers in Ashland, Nebraska, and truly made this home "a house by the side of the road."

The cities of the United States were as familiar as her old-fashioned garden. She received letters with postmarks from all parts of the globe from the friends en route. Her impressions of these journeys in letters made her seem a veritable traveling companion to them journeying far distant.

Home and country, church and school were her ideals and she kept posted on current events in their true relations and common purpose, always looking hopefully forward, despite discouraging outlook in the shifting scenes of perplexing times.

Upon leaving home for the hospital at Omaha, she had prepared for the last journey, whenever it might be, with the same sunny hopefulness that characterized the busy useful years that she lived. Her enduring monument remains in cherished memories of her devotion to others.

The world is better and brighter, thousands of humans are happier because Fannie Martin, the cheery soul born on an Illinois farm, lived among us, radiating the friendliness the world so much needs today, and leaving behind an inspiring heritage of noble thought and unselfish service that is shared by all who came within the ken of this modest gentle soul who lived the abundant life.

DAILY HEALTH

DISCOVERY OF VITAMINS: I

One cannot long discuss health or disease prevention without finding it necessary to refer to vitamins. And yet, despite the frequent use of the term, the knowledge of precisely what the vitamins are is not widespread. In this and the following columns we will tell something of the history and nature of vitamins.

The term "vitamin" was invented by a Pole named Funk, who, during the years just before the World War, was working on the problems of nutrition at the Lister institute in London. Originally the word vitamin was spelled "Vitamine." The term was coined out of the two elements, vita, meaning life, and amine, to indicate a certain type of chemical substance.

Later the terminal letters "e" of the word was dropped, because it was found that none of the vitamins then known really belonged to the amine group of chemical substances.

Vitamins can be defined roughly as food substances of no fuel value, which are necessary to well-being or to life itself in the higher animals. Higher animals apparently cannot manufacture vitamins within their own bodies. In the evolutionary process they seem to have lost this capacity, and are dependent upon lower animals and plants for their vitamin source.

Vitamins are very definitely a modern discovery. Though some would point to the Ebers Papyrus, one of the earliest medical treatises composed in Egypt, as containing definite references to vitamin A, and though numerous other medical works contain suggestions and fore-shadings of vitamins, the discovery of the existence of these so-called accessory food elements dates from the latter part of the last century.

Equally interesting, historically, are the experiments performed about 1820 by the French scientist, Magendie. Magendie found that a dog fed on fine white bread and water did not live beyond the fifth day, whereas a dog fed on the coarse "military" bread lived and remained healthy.
